Report of Selectmen

We respectfully submit for your consideration our report for the year ending December 31, 1920.

In making this report it is not our purpose to denote much space to the events of the past year. The financial statement pretty clearly shows what has been done with the money. The section of road between Mill Brook Bridge and Pine Street has been completed and accepted by the State. A piece of rock embankment was removed opposite the entrance to Holton Street this gives a better grade for the approaches to this street, and is a decided improvement, this extra work was done by the State without cost to the town. The Board of Public Works has ordered that the parapets on Millers Brook Bridge be straightened to conform with the road but on account of the scarcity of cement it could not be done this season. The unusually heavy fall of snow in February and March involved a cost of $1800. for breaking out the roads and sidewalks, the appropriation for this work was not enough and we were obliged to draw from the Contingent Fund to pay these bills. We asked for reimbursement of $1500. same to be transferred to the Contingent Fund from the appropriation of $1500. for oiling the streets. This was granted at a special Town Meeting held September 7, and while we have been able by close economy to pay all bills we recommend that at least $1000. be appropriated for snow and bridges.

Regarding the oiling of streets it was impossible to get a definite price for road oil early in the season, later we received a quotation of 23c per gallon and this did not include the spreading of same, neither could we get a definite date of shipment, under these conditions we decided that the cost was prohibitive and that we could make a better use of the money in paying the snow bills.

The big problem facing towns everywhere and especially in the small towns is, how to build better roads and maintain them, and our roads are too large a project to justify an effort to accomplish this through Town Appropriation alone, as we can not base estimate of supplies and maintainance on figures of a year ago. We have urged that the most effective way for the Town to handle its highways would be to employ a Road Superintendent, the theory is that the attention the Selectmen, and scattered individuals give to the roads is necessarily some what incidental and that there cannot be very satisfactory supervision.

On the other hand a capable man who is continuously on the job will keep the roads in better condition, and with a steady permanent improvement of them. We took up a proposition of this kind with the Board of Public Works, Division of Highways, with the result that favorable action was voted at the last Annual Town Meeting. We accepted a contract from the State under Chapter 155, General Acts of 1918, for the improvement and repairing of our highways, and altho the past season on account of the heavy rains has been very destructive to highways, and not as much permanent work done as we anticipated early in the season, we are satisfied that the $2000. received from the State was of great benefit and recommend that the Town accept same for another year. Your contract for lighting the Streets expires November 15, 1921.

December 12, William H. Aldrich	60— 6— 1

Compared with last year the deaths are three less, births five less and marriages are just the same.

Respectfully Submitted,
WARREN J. WRIGHT,

Town Clerk.

Library Trustees' Report

To the People of the Town of Northfield:-

The Trustees of the Dickinson Memorial Library in submitting their Annual Report wish to call attention to such facts connected with the library as will be of interest to the public.

Northfield has a library building, equipment, books and service which are available for use by every citizen and are a credit to a town of this size. During the past year the library has served its usual functions. In additions to the books purchased and received as gifts the State Library Commission has loaned books printed in the French and Polish language, and a splendid selection of recent standard works has been loaned by the State Board of Education. These loans have supplimented our purchases which have been limited because the book committee has been uncertain as to the amount of money available for books owing to increased cost of fuel and other necessary expenses.

One of the recent moves for the benefit of our library is the formation of a collection of books by authors who are, or have been residents of Northfield. The results are very promising and we shall soon have a unique collection of books as few towns can show.

The basement has been used to some extent by one of the Boys' Clubs in town and it is hoped that such space as we may have may be utilized for the public benefit. At present the library is open only three afternoons and evenings a week on account of fuel shortage. It seems advisable to ask the town for a small increase in our appropriation in order that new and much needed books may be purchased especially a few standard reference works which are needed to replace those now out of date owing to the results of the war and the last U. S. Census Report.

Appended is a statement of the librarians report and the accounts of the library.

Respectfully submitted,

Report of Cemetery Commissioners

We, the Cemetery Commissioners of Northfield submit our report for the past year. We find that some of the fences need painting but at the high cost of paint and labor we have decided not to recommend it this year. The lots in Central Cemetery are nearly all sold, and the Commissioners would recommend that the Town should look after a suitable place in 1921.

We have at Mt Hermon and North and South Mountain Cemeteries which need considerable attention the next year. We ask for an appropriation of $150.00 to help care for the Cemetery 1921.

The recent advance in salaries as indicated by a comparison of the tabulations given this year with that in the last year's report is in line with the policy adopted in every town and city in the Commonwealth but does not indicate increases so large as those made in most towns and cities and does not change our position in comparison with them. The only advantage we have in securing teachers lies in the fact that expenses in the towns of this section are usually lower than in larger towns and cities. Such advances as have been made are rendered possible by the co-operation of the State, large amounts now being received as reimbursements for school expenditures. The sum actually received this year were in some instances even larger than even expected because the School Committee voted some additions to salaries not then anticipated, one-half of such additions being reimbursed by the State.

Appended to the report will be found the Report of the Principal and also that of the teacher of Domestic Science. Your attention is also called to the report of the School Physician and his recommendation in which the Superintendent readily concurs. It is not doubted that the School Committee will also approve and make every endeavor to remedy faulty conditions that now undoubtedly exist. The West Northfield conditions continue to give dissatisfaction and the School Committee have it in mind to make material changes there. It is desired to install an electric pump to supply water there and if the current could be obtained this improvement would greatly assist in keeping conditions right. There seems no other way to get water under pressure at that school house.

The present conditions are such that it seemed necessary to establish one more school at Northfield Farms, this was done at little expense by equipping the hall for a school room. The desks are easily movable so that the use of the hall for assembly purposes of various kinds is not interrupted. It is probable that other schools must soon be established. There are now forty-six pupils in the Center Primary a number too large for satisfactory work. Transportation from West Northfield is now a matter of so much expense that it may seem wise to consider the establishing of one more school there as was done at the Farms. These increases in the membership of the schools are due to the growth of our population and the necessary expenses for additional schools and increased expenditures for transportation are the natural results.

We are fortunate in the change made necessary by the resignation from our last year's teaching force at the High School. Experienced teachers were secured for the Principalship and for each of the other two positions. It is hoped that these teachers will continue the good work commenced by them this year and contribute to our educational efficiency and success by several years of devoted service.

CONCLUSION

The large items of increased expense are teachers salaries, fuel and transportation; to this may be added the expenses of books and supplies, but every expenditure is increased as all are aware by the high prices in all lines of activity; it is difficult to see how the schools can be managed with less expense, and at the same time give the Town the same service as at present. The State gives liberal assistance but does not make the burden light. In common with other towns and cities this town must continue to make its appropriations actually needed to make the school what the people demand and what Northfield wishes to provide for her children.

With gratitude for the courtesy and support of the School Committee and the teachers, I respectfully submit this report.

ELMER F. HOWARD,

Superintendent of Schools

Report of School Physician

To the School Committee and Superintendent of Schools:-

Herewith is presented my report as School Physician for the past year.

The different schools have been visited and the pupils carefully examined for remediable and other defects, which have been duly reported to parents and guardians. It is encouraging to note that more attention is being paid to the physical welfare of the scholars since parents more and more realize that the counsel and advice of the school physician is disinterested and helpful.

Whooping cough and measles have been prevalent during the past year and of course, invaded the schools, but the results have not been serious. All reasonable precautions were taken to prevent their spread.

I wish to especially to call your attention to the sanitary arrangements in the several school buildings. In school house No. 6 and in school house No. 3 the old dry vaults should be replaced with structures of approved type and rigid rules providing for frequent disinfection and evacuation should be promulgated. In the Center, High and Northfield Farms Schools all is well and with better care and supervision in the East Northfield School the same would apply. But conditions at the West Northfield School are far from satisfactory and should have your early painstaking consideration. In general more careful attention should be given by janitors and those in authority to the sanitary arrangements that they may in truth be sanitary.

Roscoe H. Philbrick, M. D.,

School Physician.

HOME ECONOMICS REPORT

Mr. E. F. Howard, Superintendent of Schools

Dear Sir:-

I would submit to you and to the people of Northfield the following report of the work done in the home economics department of the Northfield High School during the past year and a brief outline of the plans for the remainder of the year.

Besides our regular work last spring, we served lunch several times to the ladies attending the classes which were held under the direction of the Farm Bureau. In May we also prepared and served a dinner for the joint School Committees of this union. In this way the girls received practise not only in the actual preparation of foods but also in table service.

The class in cooking this year began with lessons in canning and jelly making. Our regular lunch work was started as soon as most of our cans had been filled and stored away for future use. Mondays and Wednesdays one will frequently find a group of pupils gathered around the bulletin board, waiting to sign up for the following day's lunch. The menu usually consists of three dishes, such as tomato soup, macaroni with cheese, and cottage pudding or scalloped salmon, fruit rolls, and cocoa. Each person signs up for what he chooses and pays five cents for a serving of any one food. The total number of servings for one day varies from sixty to ninety. Financially the lunches are a success, as we buy all of our supplies, including the kerosene used in the stoves, and have already added several articles to our equipment. The day before Thanksgiving, the eleven girls in the class gathered with the teacher and enjoyed a fine dinner, part of which was prepared at school. We hope to serve several more meals to various groups before the end of the year. In addition to our practical work, we are taking up some theoretical work in order that the girls may know something of the composition of foods and their value in the diet.

The first work done by the sewing class consisted of aprons, holders, and towels for use in the cooking class. The girls have already made two undergarments doing some handwork on each one and also learning the use of the sewing machine. At present they are drafting skirt patterns, which they will use in making petticoats. Later I hope they will be able to remodel at least one garment and then make a waist or simple dress. Each girl has made two kinds of patches on actual garments and has acquired the ability to darn her own stockings. We plan to use some of our cooking-class money for the purchase of an ironing board and an electric iron which will be a great aid in our work. We are also studying textiles, the selection of suitable materials and trimmings for garments, and the care and repair of clothing. In the spring we are planning to have an exhibit of our work.

We are always pleased to have any friends visit either class but we realize that they do not come at a very convenient time.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY N. BOWLES,

Teacher of Home Economics

Report of High School Principal

Mr. E. F. Howard, Superintendent of Schools,

Dear Sir:-

I submit herewith my first report as principal of the Northfield High School.

On coming here I found evidences of good work in the past on the part of my predecessor as I expected, having known Miss Allen for many years and having had an intimate knowledge of the quality of her work. Our enrollment shows a total of one hundred, divided as follows; seniors 19, boys 10, girls 9; juniors 15, boys 5, girls 10; sophmores 23, boys 15, girls 8; freshmen 11, boys 3, girls 8; sub-freshmen 32, boys 21, girls 11. It is interesting to note that the boys in the whole school out-number the girls by twelve, rather an unusual occurrence in High Schools. Since September we have lost three boys, one who went to work, one who removed from town, and the third, who should return, detained by sickness at home.

With the exception of Miss Bowles, the teachers are all new to this school. Miss Caroline E. Stearns after teaching in Mendon for some time, returns to this school and takes the work in French, Latin and English formerly taught by Miss Callender. Miss Elizabeth G. Braley who comes to us after three years service in Dummerston, Vermont, has charge of the sub-freshmen and teaches one class in freshmen English. The teachers are earnest and hard-working, and show a fine spirit of co-operation.

I find that the school lost its right to certificate to college of the New England College Entrance Certificate Board in December 1919 by expiration of its term of approval. We have taken the preliminary steps for reinstatement and hope for a favorable report at the time of the regular meeting in April. A word or two about this Board may not be out of place at this time as many people fail to understand what this certificating privilege means. Schools approved by the Board may send students without examination to any New England College represented in the Board. But it should be understood that Harvard and Yale do not admit by certificate, that Wellesley, Smith and Mount Holyoke are no longer members of the Board and have their own systems of comprehensive examinations, that Dartmouth has its own method of receiving candidates, and that the technical schools have never been parties to this certificate plan. The problem of fitting for the different colleges is therefore complex because some students enter by certificate and some by examination. It should also be understood that a higher per-centage is required of pupils who expect to enter by certificate than a mere passing mark of 70 per cent and that to gain such a certificate 85 per cent must be earned in every subject presented for such certification. Hence the importance of planning for college at the very beginning of a High School course, not merely for college in general but for a particular college or group of colleges if possible, and of maintaining a high degree of efficiency all through the course. All young people of the proper ability should plan their first years work in the high school so as to further pursue their studies if opportunity offers. Too often it happens that in the last year or two of his course a pupil finds that he could go to college or technical school but has not taken the right course to bring him there. Very few pupils can know on entering the High School what they are likely to do on graduation, hence I believe that the small High School should be regarded as a place for securing a general education rather than as a means of gaining a job.

While we feel that it is right that a pupil entering the High School should feel that his purpose is to gain something in the way of knowledge that may arouse a desire to go further, it is manifestly true that there are always some who could not by any possibility go further than the High School. For such some other course should be offered, perhaps in our present situation, a two years commercial course preferably to be given the last two years rather than the first two so as to keep these pupils in school the whole four years. Such a course should be taught by one who has had a thorough commercial education and should include book-keeping, business forms, commercial arithmetic, stenography and type-writing. It is well to remember that our best business colleges prefer High School graduates on the theory that a certain degree of maturity and foundation work is necessary for office work.

There are some minor changes in the course of study which could be made with advantage but which it is not necessary to take up here.

Parents should remember that in the High School proper no pupil gets more than three periods out of these seven each day for study and that many get fewer periods. It is imperative then, for the best results that the pupils have regular hours at home for study and that the parents know how this appointment is kept. This same statement applies even to the sub-freshmen, the advantage being that he is not only better prepared day by day but will have learned when he reaches the High School how to command his time better.

The principal and teachers are always glad of opportunity to meet the parents and to offer and receive suggestions. Now that we have lights in the building we hope it may be possible to arrange one or two occasions when pupils may invite their parents and provide an opportunity for better acquaintance.

We find the pupils of this school well disposed and willing to help, and believe we may report an increase in the spirit of work. A branch of the Pro Merito Society, the purpose of which is to give public recognition to a high grade of scholarship, has just been established with two charter members from the senior class. Isobel Sutherland and Faith Buffum, and one from the junior class. Elizabeth Howard. By the rules of the society, two drawings are made each year of those pupils in the two upper class whose total average up to the time of the drawing is 85 per cent or over.

We are indebted to Rev. G. L. Thompson and Rev. H. A. Todd for helpful talks, to the Unitarian Church for the use of hymn books for a special occasion, and to the public library for many courtesies rendered.

In closing I wish to express my thanks to the Superintendent and School Board and to all others who have contributed by word or deed to the work of the school.

Respectfully submitted,

C. W. MARSHALL, Principal.
